STANGE LAW FIRM, LLC is a boutique family-law firm with offices in St. Louis County and St. Charles County. SLF represents clients in divorces, child-custody modifications, contempt of court, orders of protection, paternity suits, grandparent visitation, and juvenile matters.

Kirk C. Stange is a partner who is licensed in Missouri and Kansas. A member of the National Order of Barristers and a graduate of the ABA Family Law Trial Advocacy Institute, he has also served as a mentor through the Missouri Bar Mentoring Program.

Paola Arzu Stange is a partner who is licensed in Missouri and Georgia. A graduate of Emory University School of Law and the ABA Family Law Trial Advocacy Institute, she regularly represents clients seeking a Spanish-speaking attorney.

SLF also has three skilled associate attorneys. Irene Costas is a graduate of Saint Louis University School of Law. Nathan Leming is a graduate of the University of Missouri. Colleen Curtis is a graduate of Saint Louis University School of Law.

Says Kirk Stange, "Access to your attorney in time of crisis is a crucial factor in deciding what attorney to hire." This is why attorneys at SLF give their personal cellphone numbers to clients. The firm also offers reasonable hourly rates.

One of the most rewarding recent experiences for Kirk Stange was getting unsupervised visitation for one of his clients who was a good father, but had not seen his children for more than a year prior to hiring SLF.

In 2009, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch covered SLF in two articles titled "A Baby Daddy is No Daddy in the Eyes of the Law" and "Divorce Lawyer Balances Law Firm, Toddler." The successful opening of SLF's St. Charles office in 2009 was mentioned by the St. Louis Business Journal.

SLF hosted free, informational seminars for unmarried fathers in 2009—and looks to hold future family-law seminars in 2010. SLF's motto: "Retain us, let us worry about the rest."
